Crisis Management

When Crisis Strikes: A steady hand in worst-case scenarios.

Violence in the workplace. Natural disasters. Even acts of terrorism. CCA's extensive experience in helping employees cope with traumatic stress will help your organization recover as quickly as possible to resume normal productivity.

CCA provides on-site management consultations, employee meetings and clinical services in the hours and weeks following an unanticipated crisis scenario, with each response tailored to the event.

Your account executive is your first line of support for any type of emergency. Our team has provided emergency services for every conceivable disaster, from an on-site murder or suicide to the terrorist attacks of September 11 (during which we provided more than 500 Critical Incident Stress Debriefing groups and deployed 70 counselors to client locations throughout the country).

We will consult with you to manage all the details of an effective response, from helping you create employee communications materials to providing on-site services such as grief groups or critical incident stress debriefing groups.

Our emergency response is immediate, global and available 24/7.
